“ I met Candace when she worked at Menards. She took her job seriously while always making customers feel valued. Within two weeks of working as a checkout person there could be three or four other checkout lines with maybe one person but Candace's line would have four or five people willing to wait. She had that kind of affect on people. She was smart, talented and had an excellent eye for coordinating colors.

She truly loved working on her fathers house and had dreams of making it a place the community could use for gatherings and family events. That was the giving nature of one of the most remarkable people I have ever met. You will be missed Candace.
