“ We are saddened by the passing of Dixie who has been a part of our family for as long as any of us can remember. One of her children was named after our family name, Murray, and visits were often when the children were younger. Our relationship has been kept fresh through two of Dixie's children for which we are thankful. She was always a great fan of the Murray family and ready to engage in conversation. She loved to get below the "flowers" of conversation and find out what was really going on. She didn't shy away from good but hard questions about values of family and politics. Always fun to be around. So sorry it wasn't more often in later years. Our condolences to the Weldon family.
